

Jonathan E. Buzzell, M.D. is a board certified, fellowship trained orthopedic shoulder surgeon in Omaha and Norfolk, Nebraska. He is in his 10th year of practice as a full partner at OrthoNebraska, formerly known as OrthoWest. As a shoulder specialist, Dr. Buzzell treats patients from young to old who present with all varieties of problems related to the shoulder girdle. A large part of his practice interest is sports medicine, and he is a team physician for Burke High School, Nebraska State Athletic Association, Omaha Lancers, Bellevue University, and Justin Boots Sports Medicine. Dr. Buzzell is the head team physician for the OrthoNebraska Rodeo Sports Medicine Team, which provides coverage for the Nebraska High School Rodeo Association and P.R.C.A. athletes.

Dr. Buzzell is a veteran of the U.S. Air Force (active duty 1987-1991) where he earned his G.I. Bill. He earned a bachelor of science in Sports Medicine from Colorado State University and his Doctorate of Medicine from Creighton University. His surgical internship and orthopedic surgery residency were at Vanderbilt University, and his shoulder fellowship was at the WB Carrell Clinic in Dallas, Texas. Dr. Buzzell and his wife, Joni, live in Elkhorn, NE with their two daughters Sydney and Sophia.
